With its sessions, symposia, exhibitors, and registered attendees, NECC is the largest conference of its kind in the world. NECC has been providing PK–12 and university-level education professionals with an annual forum to learn, exchange, and survey advancements in the field of educational technology for 28 years. NECC is presented by the International Society for Technology in Education (ISTE).

NECC 2007 is expected to draw more than 18,000 teachers, teacher educators, administrators, library media specialists, technology coordinators, policy makers, industry representatives, and exhibitors from around the globe. NECC will include more than 500 exhibits of the latest in educational hardware and software, as well as local and national speakers, demonstrations, discussions, and workshops. Convention exhibits and workshops will give delegates opportunities for hands-on experience with PK–16 technology products. Each participant has spent at least $145 attending ISTE's National Educational Computing Conference (not including travel, meals, lodging, and entertainment expenses).

The participants listed above will gather in Atlanta, Georgia.
